

Troy Stabenow is an Assistant Federal Public Defender for the Western District of Missouri. In 2008, Troy authored an article on federal sentencing, "Deconstructing the Myth of Careful Study: A Primer on the Flawed Progression of the Child Pornography Guideline." The article received nationwide attention, generated written opinions in nearly every circuit, and contributed to a drastic change in the way courts sentence child pornography offenders. In 2012, Troy published a follow-up article analyzing the current science on recidivism and offering proposals for reform. He is one of the nation's foremost experts in child pornography crimes.

As a military prosecutor in Germany during the 1990's and early 2000's, Troy worked closely with the Bundeskriminalamt (the German equivalent of the FBI) on computer crimes. He also trained military investigators and prosecutors to better investigate and prosecute these offenses. In 2003, he returned to the United States, and began litigating and teaching from the defense perspective.

In 2005, Mr. Stabenow transferred to the U.S. Army Reserves and joined our office. Troy continues to serve as a military prosecutor on the weekends, with the result that he both prosecutes and defends computer crime cases regularly. Troy is the author of the four volume series "West Federal Forms for District Courts - Criminal." He is a member of the 8th Circuit's Criminal Law Jury Instruction subcommittee.
