

Jessica MacFarlane is a Research Associate at Perception Institute, where she conducts original research studies on the science of implicit bias, racial anxiety, and stereotype threat. Jessica presents on these topics to a wide range of audiences, including judges and other key stakeholders the justice system, with the aim of equipping individuals with tools to achieve their goals of fairness.